

Studio di suscettività d'uso dei suoli

WP1 - A1.4 Analisi tecnico-economica dei terreni disponibili

Prof. Vincenzo Fucili
Dott. Giuseppe Mezzapesa

1. Principi

L'analisi di suscettività dei suoli o Land Evaluation rappresenta il processo di previsione degli usi potenziali ottimali di un territorio, sulle base dei suoi specifici caratteri.

Secondo le indicazioni della FAO un tratto di territorio (Land) è un'area specifica della superficie terrestre, definita geograficamente (e non, come nel significato che generalmente questo termine assume in italiano, definita da limiti politico-amministrativi). Le sue caratteristiche abbracciano tutti gli attributi generalmente stabili o talvolta ciclici della biosfera, come l'atmosfera, il suolo in tutte le sue molteplici espressioni, la geologia, l'idrologia, le popolazioni vegetali, animali e gli effetti delle attività antropiche su di esso realizzate.

La Land Evaluation è quindi un metodo che si propone di tradurre la totalità delle informazioni ricevute dall'analisi multidisciplinare di uno specifico territorio in informazioni che ne consentano una potenziale ed eventuale trasformazione.

Le finalità dell'analisi di suscettività dei suoli diventa pertanto l'elemento chiave che consente di calibrare le analisi da effettuare per perseguire in maniera efficace quanto ci si era proposti di ottenere.

La finalità del nostro studio consiste nel definire quali siano le specie vegetali che si possano coltivare nell'area in esame e che possano fornire il più alto valore della Produzione Lorda Vendibile¹ (PLV) per unità di superficie (Superficie Agricola Utilizzata - SAU). Si è pertanto ritenuto di procedere con un metodo che considera principalmente i caratteri pedologici, la disponibilità di fonti irrigue ed anche la presenza di manufatti rurali quale proxy per eventuali suscettività dell'uso dei suoli non solo strettamente agricole ma anche alimentari e/o multifunzionali (birrifici artigianali, agriturismi ecc.).

L'analisi dei potenziali cambiamenti nell'uso dei suoli ha come obiettivo quello di fornire un ventaglio di possibilità di fruizione economicamente sostenibile dei suoli oggetto di analisi.

2. La metodologia utilizzata

Si realizzerà uno studio di suscettibilità di uso dei suolo di tipo potenziale. Il principio guida consiste nell'analisi delle proprietà dei suoli, dei soprasuoli e dell'area in esame che, come noto, influenzano in maniera ragionevole il successo di un potenziale Land Use.

Il tipo di utilizzazione del territorio o Land Utilization Type (LUT) è un concetto chiave per la valutazione delle attitudini; esso specifica per quale tipo di assetto agricolo, o per quale sistema colturale, o più generalmente per quale uso sostenibile dal territorio, è valida la classificazione.

Il primo passo nell'interpretazione del territorio in esame è mirato ad accertare quali proprietà siano destinate ad assumere una certa rilevanza, ad accertare se possano essere misurate o stimate senza difficoltà, e in seguito si procede alla loro analisi.

Dette proprietà sono anche comunemente definite come i caratteri del territorio, i quali sono raccolti durante i rilevamenti (da fonti primarie o secondarie). Comprendono caratteri del suolo (fisici e chimici), del clima (temperatura, piovosità, direzione ed intensità del vento), caratteri morfologici (pendenza, esposizione) idrologici utili alla definizione delle unità del territorio e alla loro classificazione. Di assoluta rilevanza, ai fini dello studio, riveste il carattere della contiguità dei suoli, al fine di valutare quali possano essere le dimensioni minime delle unità colturali di riferimento.

Il processo di valutazione inizia quindi con la precisazione del tipo di utilizzazione e continua con il rilevamento dei caratteri e delle qualità del territorio e la definizione dei requisiti d'uso.

Dopo avere definito i requisiti necessari per poter sviluppare un uso specifico nel territorio in esame ed acquisito i dati per l'elaborazione, occorre procedere all'analisi comparata dei caratteri dei suoli rispetto alle esigenze delle colture individuate, in modo da definire le intensità delle limitazioni all'uso dei suoli per determinate colture (classi di attitudine), espresse in termini di SAU.

Questo passaggio metodologico consiste dunque nel comparare i requisiti di un determinato tipo di utilizzazione con le qualità delle unità territoriali rilevate sul territorio, attribuendo ad ognuna di queste una classe che rappresenta, in maniera decrescente, il valore del territorio o, per meglio dire, la sua attitudine a quello specifico uso: le classi più basse rappresentano le condizioni migliori, le più alte le peggiori. A ogni unità colturale (ovvero ettaro di SAU) viene quindi assegnata una classe di suscettività d'uso per quella specifica specie vegetale. Per la definizione puntuale delle caratteristiche pedo-agronomiche dei suoli e la loro classificazione in livelli di intensità delle limitazioni per la realizzazione di determinati processi produttivi si veda la RELAZIONE.....

E' necessario ribadire che, per questo lavoro, non si considera il territorio in senso lato (aspetti di tutela dell'ambiente in particolare) ma solo nella sua componente "suolo", nel senso sopra descritto.

Come precedentemente evidenziato le classi, che esprimono il livello di intensità delle limitazioni di ogni unità colturale (espressa in termini di SAU) sono di seguito definite:

1 Intensità delle limitazioni assente o lieve: suoli senza significative limitazioni per l'applicazione dell'uso proposto o con limitazioni di poca importanza che non riducano significativamente la produttività espressa in termini di PLV.

2 Intensità delle limitazioni moderata: suoli con limitazioni moderatamente severe per l'applicazione dell'uso proposto e tali, comunque, da ridurre la produttività espressa in termini di PLV.

3 Intensità delle limitazioni severa: suoli con severe limitazioni per l'uso proposto.

Le colture che si possono realizzare sono state scelte in funzione di criteri agronomico-colturali ed economico-sociali. Infatti si tratta di specie (o raggruppamenti di specie) tipiche del territorio agricolo della provincia di Bari. Esse sono: Olivo, Mandorlo, Ciliegio, Susino, Pesco e Nettarine, Albicocco, Vite da Vino, Seminativi, Ortaggi.

La valutazione della suscettività d'uso dei suoli (di natura essenzialmente pedo agronomica), per le singole specie e per le singole particelle è descritta nel REPORT...

La presente analisi economica è finalizzata alla determinazione dell'incidenza dei Costi diretti sulla Produzione Lorda Vendibile delle colture agrarie precedentemente individuate.

I dati relativi ai Costi diretti e alla PLV di tali colture per il periodo 2017-2020 sono stati acquisiti dal portale RICA² (Rete di Informazione Contabile Agricola). La RICA è un'indagine campionaria annuale istituita dalla Commissione Economica Europea nel 1965.

In Italia, l'indagine RICA viene condotta a partire dal 1968 con un'impostazione analoga in tutti i Paesi dell'Unione Europea, rappresentando l'unica fonte armonizzata di dati microeconomici sull'evoluzione dei redditi e sulle dinamiche economico-strutturali delle aziende agricole.

² La rete d'informazione contabile agricola (RICA) è uno strumento dell'UE volto a esplorare la situazione economica agricola europea e a programmare/valutare la politica agricola comune (PAC). Il sistema informativo della RICA italiana è più articolato di quello europeo e può soddisfare le esigenze conoscitive non solo a livello aziendale ma anche a livello territoriale per finalità scientifiche e/o di programmazione settoriale. Il CREA - Centro di Ricerca per le Politiche Agricole e la Bioeconomia è, per conto dello Stato Italiano, l'organismo di collegamento con la Commissione Europea per l'attuazione e la gestione della RICA.

Secondo il Glossario RICA, per Produzione Lorda Vendibile (PLV) si intende il valore della produzione agricola ottenuto dalla vendita dei prodotti primari e trasformati, dall'autoconsumo, dalle regalie, dai salari in natura, dalle variazioni di magazzino, dalla capitalizzazione dei costi per le costruzioni in economia e per le manutenzioni straordinarie, dalla rimonta interna di animali giovani ed infine, dagli aiuti pubblici in conto esercizio del primo pilastro della PAC. Invece, i Costi diretti o Costi specifici comprendono tutte le spese sostenute per l'acquisto di concimi, mezzi di difesa, sementi e acqua per l'irrigazione, nonché per il contoterzismo, i reimpieghi dei prodotti aziendali, le assicurazioni e le certificazioni.

Per l'Olivo è stata considerata al posto della PLV la Produzione Lorda Totale (PLT): il valore della produzione al lordo dei reimpieghi e/o trasformazioni.

Per ciascun anno del periodo considerato, sono stati acquisiti i Report di analisi settoriale delle diverse categorie di colture, direttamente scaricabili in formato Excel dalla sezione AREA (Analisi dei Risultati Economici Aziendali) del portale RICA.

AREA è il sistema informativo predisposto dal CREA PB per la diffusione delle informazioni non solo di natura contabile, ma anche di carattere tecnico e strutturale, raccolte per ogni azienda agricola appartenente alla Rete di Informazione Contabile Agricola italiana.

I Report di analisi settoriale riportano per ciascuna coltura i valori medi della Produzione Lorda Vendibile e dei Costi diretti espressi in €/ha, nonché molteplici altre informazioni, tra cui la superficie coltivata, la resa ed il prezzo del prodotto principale. Una sintesi dei dati utilizzati è visibile in Appendice.

Pertanto, l'elaborazione dei dati acquisiti si è concentrata sulla determinazione della PLV come precedentemente definita e del Margine Lordo (ML). Questo rappresenta un valore della redditività delle attività produttive aziendali (coltivazioni e allevamenti), ottenuto quale differenza tra il valore totale della produzione (prodotto principali + eventuali prodotti secondari) ed i costi sostenuti per la produzione, a loro volta riconducibili ai costi specifici, ai costi generici e ai reimpieghi di prodotti aziendali.

La PLV e il ML sono i parametri economici principali per definire la produttività ovvero la convenienza economica ad impiantare le colture precedentemente definite. Essi, a differenza degli altri parametri economici afferenti alla categoria del Reddito Netto prescindono dal tipo di impresa che conduce l'azienda agricola. Pertanto sono i più idonei a definire la produttività in termini economici di un suolo agricolo.

Il calcolo della PLV e del ML è stato realizzato per ogni particella e per ognuna delle colture scelte, in modo da offrire un chiaro ventaglio di scelta per coloro che vogliono entrare in possesso dei suoli agricoli ed esercitare l'attività imprenditoriale agricola a prescindere dal tipo di impresa che si intenda avviare.

Infine, un'ultima precisazione di natura metodologica concerne la scelta di utilizzare i dati di quattro annualità della RICA. Tale scelta è necessaria per ridurre al minimo la variabilità dei risultati economici dovuta a variabili esogene alla volontà e capacità dell'imprenditore come ad esempio volatilità dei prezzi di mercato, andamenti climatici, caratteri fenologico-produttivi delle colture (ad esempio l'alternanza di produzione dell'Olivo).
